SVIMS NEWSROOM

Welcoming our New Friends

An Orientation Program and Freshers party was organised for MBA- Ist Year students on 18th and 19th August 2017.

Dr. B. H. Nanwani (Director), faculty members and Part II students welcomed the students in their own special ways. As part of the orientation programme, Mr. Balasubramaniam, former VP and CFO, of Zensar Technologies, was invited to speak on 'Empathy in Management'. He spoke on employee engagement, multi skilling, investing in employee retention strategies, blue collar management and supported these with real corporate examples.

Mr. Surajit Das, Columnist, Image Consultant, Corporate Trainer, Motivational speaker and Theatre Actor was also invited to speak on "Power of first Impression". Mr Das elaborated on the importance of effective communication skills, self-confidence, positivity, happiness and attitude. Through role plays, he showed how communication can be used to win the hearts and minds of people.

Teacher: Today, we are going to talk about the tenses. Now, if I say

"I am Beautiful "

Which Tense is it?

Student: Obviously it is the past tense

Be a Leader Inside out!

Leadership is the most sought after management skill for organizations these days. The reason is simple; leaders are supposed to turn the vision of an organization into reality. Though, there is no appropriate style recommended for leadership, there are some internal attributes that are indicators of successful leadership. These cannot be taught and are person specific. The three main qualities that distinguish exceptional leaders from the mediocre are authenticity, influence and value creation. Here, authenticity can be described as being self-aware, being willing to face one's strengths and vulnerabilities and taking action to develop the self. Influence in context of leadership is basically communication that convinces oneself and the team to take action on things that are important.

Last but never the least is Value creation. Here the individual feels passion and aspiration to serve in different capacities and contexts. Value creation is not just for the organization it is value that she or he can create for self, team, family, friends, organization and the community at large. These three attributes are essentially interlinked and contribute to one's own welfare and that of organizations and the community at large.
