The Maggie Controversy

Everyone's childhood favourite, Maggie, is in danger of extinction after recent ruling from Food Safety and Standard Authority of India (FSSAI). Although, we all knew in our hearts that all is not well with Maggie as our mothers always warned us not to have too much Maggie. But this, coming from research based facts makes us sit up and take notice. (Maggie samples had high levels of lead and MSG). Supporters of Maggie say check other packaged noodles and pasta they would also contain banned substance so why target Maggie and that too after so many years.

What do you think? Should Maggie be banned or not? Send us your comments at svimsconnect@gmail.com

I, Steffee Souza, a student of SVIMS batch 2013-2015, feel very blessed to have been part of this institute. Wrapped around the warm wings of Dada J. P. Vaswani, SVIMS groomed me as a person and made me self dependent to face any challenge. With the heritage of its culture it kept the "Indianness" in me alive. A team of helpful and knowledgeable faculty and gang of friends SVIMS made me fall in love with college life.

I will be joining ICICI securities soon. As they say MBA is passport to change the future, I hope that the essence of every value I learnt at SVIMS stands high in my work.
